Description: The UCSB American Indian Graduate Student Alliance (AIGSA) and American Indian Student Association (AISA), are submitting a proposal for the Indigenous Symposium on Race and Racism to be held November 13th-15th, 2009, at the Student Resource Building. The need for such an event follows recent events surrounding the Carpenteria High School mascot vote, the UCSB Nexus Newspaper problem, low American Indian enrollment and the lack of an Indigenous/American Indian Studies department at UCSB. With this, the American Indian students decided to organize a form to address race and racism affecting local Indigenous communities, especially in the field of education.

UCSB Wellness Program

The Science of Happiness

Proven Interventions to make one Happier

Date: Wednesday November 4th

Time: 10am-2pm

Location: Grass Area across from the Career Service Center

Estimated Attendance: 400-500 students

Dear AS Finance Board,

After the huge success of our Wellness Week event last quarter, the UCSB Wellness program has decided to capture another aspect of being well at UCSB. This time, we are promoting Three Positive Psychology Interventions that are proven to increase happiness and benefit the student body. The first intervention is the Three Good things journal. This entails that every night for one week individuals record three good things that happened in that day and what caused them. The second intervention is a Gratitude Letter. The participant writes a gratitude letter to someone who had been especially kind to them who they never properly thanked. The third intervention is using your Signature Strength. The participants identify their top three strengths and use them in new and different ways each day for a week. According to Positive Psychology Progress, these interventions "increased happiness and decreased depressive symptoms for at least a month or up to sixth months" (416" Park, Peterson, Seligman and Steen). This is a very cheap yet effective way to decrease depressive systems and increase happiness and promote flourishing at UCSB. This is important because college students are reported to have one of the highest level of stress among the American population. Through promoting the use of these scientific interventions we will help students become proactive about their well being, stress levels and general happiness and therefore more successful in their college career. Two of the biggest ideas of the Wellness program are being proactive and being positive. We believe that through this event we will be able to get students to proactively participate in increasing their own happiness. It is scientifically proven that one can enhance his/her overall wellness by being more proactive and positive; we aim to give the students of UCSB the opportunity to practice this for themselves.

The Wellness program is not relying solely on AS Finance for money, and as outlined in the budget. We are utilizing funds from fundraisers we are hosting, money from our OSL account, and Student Health as well. Specifically, Student Health is funding this event by providing balloons, helium, posters/paint, photocopiers/fliers, computers, and lastly staff training. We know that all of these are essential building blocks to making this event successful and efficient in getting the information out to students.

The money we are requesting from AS Finance will be used to purchase giveaways. UCSB Wellness wants to get the students involved as much as we can, and therefore, the giveaways will be designed to aid students with executing the interventions. We already have pre-stamped envelopes for the gratitude letter and Student Health is providing charts for the Strength Intervention, but we are asking AS to finance mini-journals regarding the three good things intervention. In addition we would like to purchase pens with our website on it along with flowers to attach flyers with the intervention directions on them so we can reach a great number of students. The Smiley Face stickers will be place on all the giveaways in because we like to place smiley face stickers on our giveaways to remind students that the items were given away by wellness interns. In this way if they need additional information about the intervention they can contact the internship.

Estimated Budget:

Note: All expenses account for tax
